THREE HARVEST EXCURSIONS

Half Rates via the Illinois Central Aug. 30, Sept. 27 and Oct. 25th, 1892.

The Central Route will sell excursion tickets to the Agricultural Regions of the West, South-west and South, at one fare for the round trip, from stations on its lines north of Cairo, on August 30th and September 27th. A third excursion will be run to the South and Southwest on October 25th. Your local ticket agent will give you full particulars in regard to these Harvest Excursions; arrangements can also be made in this connection to visit the desirable Railroad Lands for sale by the Illinois Central in Southern Illinois on obtaining special permission to do so by addressing the Company's Land Commissioner at Chicago, Mr. E. P. McKee. In addition, a few weeks before the first excursion date, your local ticket agent will be able to furnish you with a special Folder, issued by the Illinois Central, which will give you particulars of these Harvest Excursions to such form as will enable you to plan your journey at home. Should you not be within call of a railroad ticket agent, address A. H. Hanson, G. P. A., Illinois Central R. R., Chicago, Ill. 8-4-5t

NO WILDCAT BANKS.

The Farmer and Workingman Demand a Sound Currency.

The Policy of the Democrats Would Bring Confusion.

The President of the Farmers' Alliance Takes Strong Ground Against the Scheme Concocted by the Followers of Cleveland in Framing the Chicago Platform.

New York, Sept. 21. The more the people look into the Democratic proposition to repeal the 10 per cent. tax on state bank issues the greater becomes the fear of the results of such a course. President Livingston, of the Farmers' Alliance, in a circular letter to the workmen of the country on the subject, relates some of his own experiences as a loser by the state bank currency system, when he was in business as a publisher, from the losses along into the sixties, by reason of the wildcat system. He goes on to say:

"The farmers' and planters' products, good as gold, should at all times be paid for with an honest dollar worth a hundred cents. No more direful calamity could befall them than a return to state bank issues—a retrograde movement of dangerous character. Such a currency, good one day and good for nothing the next, is not wanted by the farmer, whose wheat and corn and cotton are always worth gold, or its equivalent, at the hundred cents. A seventy cent dollar would cheat him to the extent of thirty cents.

The Present Currency Secure.

"The national bank currency, always and everywhere, being secured by bonds of the national government, safe as the gold itself, supplies every requirement. To carry out the eighth plank of the Democratic platform would be a vicious and destructive act, involving the country in confusion and disaster—would tend to disestablish the best system the country ever had and return to the financial distractions of thirty-five years ago—a long step backward, resulting disastrously to capital and labor."

Mr. Livingston's circular, forcible as it is, is merely a suggestion of the multitudinous ills born of and concomitant with the miserable old wildcat banking system. The history of that system would make a volume, and the present tendency on the part of the Democrats to repeal the tax on state bank issues is doubly dangerous, because the present generation does not know that history. It has had no experience with a debased bank note currency. If men who have come upon the stage of action in these latter days understood just what the Democrats hope to accomplish by repealing the tax they would resist it even to the limit of revolution.

Death of Wildcat Banking.

Wildcat banking died in 1863 by the hand of Salmon P. Chase at the command of Abraham Lincoln. But men of an older day remember well how banks were created under special charter by every state and territory legislature. In New England and some of the older states the banks were limited to the issue of three dollars in notes for each dollar of capital. Some provisions were made for the security of the holders of their notes, but in some of the states there was no restriction on the issue of bills and no security required for their payment, and charters for the latter class were readily procured. The wildcat banker was ordinarily a speculator—trader without capital—a lobbyist, or worse, who knew how to get charters from easy going legislatures. A lumber shanty or a shingle mill served for a banking house, and business was confined to the exchange of flimsy notes for convertible property. When specie was demanded in return for them the bank failed, and as it had no assets to be looked after the banker packed his grip and sought fresh fields and pastures new.

His bank notes, to the amount of scores of thousands of dollars, remained in the pockets of the swindled individuals, not worth the paper on which they were printed.

Since the fulmination by the Democrats at Chicago of a plan to restore this monumental system of bad money, there have come to the members of the Republican national committee vast quantities of this old, irresponsible, valueless, irredeemable, damnable currency. The notes, from all sections of the country, have been sent in such letters as this: "If these witnesses to the danger and disaster that are bound to be the result of a resumption of the old wildcat banking system can be put to any use in urging the voters of this country to vote against it, use them. They represent commodities and labor which should have been paid for at par."

Respectfully thrived under the old wildcat system.

Run on a Cash Basis.

The Democratic campaign in New York is languishing for the lack of cash. Whitney is complaining because he is compelled to carry the expenses of the great moral aggregation himself, and as he is already out about $100,000 on Cleveland's account, he naturally thinks it is time he should begin to think of his heirs. But why should the Cleveland campaign require cash, anyhow? Wasn't it the song that the people wanted him, that the people were crying for him and that the people must have him? Why not run the campaign on "innocuous dissimulatio" and Bonaparte Klabbough?

Why Is This.

This morning at least two of our prominent citizens were looking for laborers, but could not secure any, although plenty men were about, idling. There is something wrong about this business. It is said that others than Poles, Hungarians and Italians are given a chance to work they refuse it and when the P's, H's and I's are given work there is a general outcry against un-American labor.

Hard on Hall.
To-day's Miners' Journal contains an article on life in the county jail and says that a warm intimacy has grown between Lawlor and Wilson, noted safe crackers, and Harry T. Hall, the photographer, who is serving time for attempting to set fire to his gallery in this town. The paper says: "A warm intimacy grew up between them from the hour they first met. Hall, the Shenandoah incendiary, has become the constant companion of the two burglars and seems to have won their confidence. A reporter of this paper was in the yard yesterday when the prisoners were left out and he closely watched the motions of the trio. They kept aloof from the others and conversed with their heads close together. Hall is a bad one, and he is not the innocent man that certain persons say he is. He is the only man who has won the confidence of Lawlor and Wilson."

New Reading Order.
The Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company has issued a new order to all inside foremen and mechanics, requiring them to take up their residence in the immediate vicinity of the colliery at which they are employed. The object of the order is to have all competent men promptly on hand in case any serious occurs requiring immediate attention. The order will affect a large number of employees who, in preference to being deprived of the privileges of town life, have been daily traveling by car or carriage to their work.

Within a Foot of Death.

As the local freight train drew up at the Lehigh Valley depot at 12:52 to-day a drunken Hungarian staggered across the track and fell upon the rails in front of the train. Engineer Tamara applied the air brakes and reversed the engine, bringing the train to a stop within a foot of the prostrate man. A bystander helped the man to his feet and then gave him a kick that sent him against the meat market building with a thump. The Hun picked himself up and staggered down Centre street.

Election of Officers.

Shenandoah Lodge, No. 591, I. O. O. F., held an election of officers last night that resulted as follows: Noble Grand, Henry L. Jones; Vice Grand, Thomas Miners; Assistant Secretary, Jonathan Willingham; Treasurer, Charles Hocks; Trustee (18 months) James Kanaga; 12 mo. trustee, William T. Evans; Representative to the Grand Lodge, R. A. Davenport; Cemetery trustee, Edwin R. Williams.
